

Occasionally on my Facebook newsfeed, I see old photos that bring back a flood bank of memories. On this particular day, I was reminded of a little orphan girl in desperate need of help. I remember listening to her story back in 2010; it was shocking, tragic, and heartbreaking. I have often wondered how parents could abandon their children and leave them to the cruel whims of society. Hearing orphan children tell their stories has always sent me through a gamut of emotions, and their stories have impacted my life profoundly. I am convinced that God does not want people to just listen to the accounts of suffering people. He called his followers to listen and make a difference, He wants us to contribute to others' success, and in my mind this is best launched with a hope that lives in harmony with a practical help.

Years ago, many people would throw out the question, "What would Jesus do?" Sometimes that question is difficult to pinpoint, but I do know what Jesus would not do, He would never abandon suffering children. He is a Father to the Fatherless (Ps.68:5) and a great helper in time of need (Heb 4:16). From the beginning of our ministry, we have set out to make a difference, and with confidence, I can say we have helped hundreds of children. Therefore I want to thank everyone who supported our ministry. You have made a significant difference in the lives of these children and the Kingdom of God as a whole. May God continue to bless you for all your kindness and self-sacrifice; you are making a real difference.
